

MAYOR CANFIELD REPLIES TO IRWIN

Shows the Real Facts About Mr. Kearney's Boasted Management of the Alms Board and the Debts Incurred by the Irwin Administration.

Nov. 1st, 1915.
Editor Kingston Daily Freeman:—
Mr. Irwin made a campaign speech Saturday night at the Mansion House in behalf of my opponent, Mr. Kearney. He told how he had appointed Mr. Kearney a member of his Alms Board. He stated that his Alms Board left a working surplus of $3,000. He further stated, "That speaks volumes for his (Mr. Kearney's) ability and fitness for the office of Mayor."

Mr. Kearney made a short speech in behalf of himself. He stated in reference to the Alms Board, "We managed to finish our term with $3,000.00. When Mr. Canfield says that this Board (meaning the present Board) is in better condition he doesn't know what he is talking about."

Mr. Irwin and Mr. Kearney based their whole argument as to the latter's fitness for mayor upon this record as an Alms Commissioner. I have no quarrel with the Irwin Alms Board nor do I desire to criticize that Board. However, both Mr. Irwin and Mr. Kearney gave the credit side to the balance sheet and not the debit side. Mr. Irwin retained Haskins and Sells, certified public accountants, in November 1913, to examine the accounts of the city for the fiscal year of 1913. In their report they state that the balance in the Alms fund November 30, 1913, was $2,773.24. They also state that the total amount of unpaid bills November 30, 1913, was $2,328.84. According to their report, the balance on hand on November 30, 1913, after the payment of bills, was the difference between $2,773.24, and $2,328.84, or $444.40. There were also other unpaid bills that were filed against the city for the year 1913, to the amount of $444.40. When we take the vote to believe, Mr. Irwin's and Mr. Kearney's general statements or the written report of Haskins & Sells, expert accountants? The report of Haskins & Sells should certainly be correct considering the fact that the Irwin administration paid them over $15,000 for auditing the city accounts, which payments were made necessary by and due principally to the alleged embezzlement of about $9,000 of the city funds by Mr. Irwin's city treasurer, Mr. Boyce. Haskins & Sells were also paid many thousands of dollars by the city for their work in connection with the trial of Mr. Boyce, of which amount this city had to pay its proportionate share or about forty per cent thereof. Mr. Kearney in his speech referred to that part of a circular written and issued by me reading as follows:—"Mr. Voter—Do you know that if Mr. Kearney should be elected, he would naturally lend his ears to his champion and teacher, Mr. Irwin?" Mr. Kearney stated in reference thereto:—"If he cares to say I champion Mr. Irwin's cause I will say to you here in public perfectly willing and I hope I shall be able to champion the cause of any good man no matter what his name."

The above, Mr. Voter, is Mr. Kearney's answer to the charge that Mr. Irwin is his champion. Mr. Kearney did not deny the statement that "he would naturally lend his ears to his champion and teacher, Mr. Irwin." He did not declare it to be untrue. He did not contradict it. He did not reject it as not being correct. He did not make any contrary assertion. There can be only one construction placed upon Mr. Kearney's answer, and that is that he looks upon Mr. Irwin as his champion and that he intends to champion the causes and principles of Mr. Irwin. The latter has been Mr. Irwin's abettor and a leading spirit in his campaign. These facts would not be worth mentioning even if they point to the one conclusion that Mr. Irwin would unquestionably and admittedly be the dominating force in our city's affairs in case of Mr. Kearney's election. This fact places the responsibility upon the voters to choose between the present administration and the proposed administration, and it makes proper a comparison between the two administrations.

Mr. Irwin stated in his speech Saturday night: "I only left him (meaning me) $5,200 in unpaid bills." Let us again refer to Haskins & Sells' report, which is on file in the city clerk's office, in their report they state: "A complete list of all unpaid bills and claims against the city, filed with the city clerk up to and including December 15th, 1913, is shown by Exhibit 'H.' The total of these contingent liabilities amount to $29,010.03." They further state that the above amount does not include a bill of $870 for an oil sprinkler purchased in the spring of 1913, and to be paid for on January 15th, 1914. In Exhibit 'H' is a list of the city debtors and the respective amount due each. It will be seen that according to Mr. Irwin's expert accountants, who dealt in specific facts and figures based upon the city records, the amount of unpaid bills filed prior to December 15th, 1913, was about $29,000. Their report does not deal with the many and numerous unpaid bills that were filed after December 15th, 1913, amounting to many thousands of dollars, and which kept coming in for a year afterwards. Mr. Irwin stated that he would take the credit (meaning the responsibility) for only $5,200 of the deficiencies that went into last winter's budget and tax rate, which deficiencies really amounted to over $29,000. He pleasantly forgot to

JUDGE CLEARWATER REPLIES TO SEABURY

Replying to Judge Seabury's attack on the proposed new constitution Judge Clearwater writes to the New York Sun as follows:

To the Editor of The Sun.—Sir: It is greatly to be regretted that a judge of the exalted position and a gentleman of the personal distinction of Judge Seabury should inadvertently have fallen into so grave an error regarding the constitutional convention and it is but fair to assume that his recent statement is predicated upon a lack of exact information. Nothing could be further from the fact than his conclusion that "the convention was controlled by a small coterie of corporation lawyers," or that "it resembled a meeting of a committee of the Bar Association where a few corporation lawyers gather together in mutual admiration of one another's ability and discuss matters of a purely professional nature affecting the interests of their prosperous and monopolistic clients." Doubtless there were corporation lawyers in the convention, but they did not control it, and if ever there was a gathering which was characterized by an absence of the expression of mutual admiration of individual ability, the constitutional convention was such a gathering.

While there was no asperity and no personalities, yet it was the delight of the delegates to catch the more distinguished members of the convention tripping, either in quotation of constitutional provision or of law or in classic or historical allusion. The discussions of the convention, as its records will demonstrate, were of a high order, great governmental questions being debated with an ability and a knowledge of their far reaching consequences, with a force and lucidity of diction which would have been creditable in any deliberative body of the past century.

An interesting fact was that delegates who perhaps may be regarded as corporation lawyers were the very men who most warmly espoused the amendments introduced by the representatives of the labor organizations, namely, the amendment relative to the right to recovery for loss of health or life resulting from occupational diseases and the much criticized amendment, increasing the salary of assemblymen and senators. Thoroughly amended was pressed by the representatives of organized labor upon the ground that the representatives of the labor organizations could not afford to become members of the legislature at the existing salaries because by doing so they would sacrifice the wages they earned and incur the expense of living in a not inexpensive capital, and so earnestly and so eloquently as this pressed upon the attention of the delegates that many members of the convention who otherwise would have voted against it, were induced to favor it.

The pitiful specification of Judge Seabury of the permissive feature in his revision giving to a person charged with one of the lesser degrees of felony leave to plead indictment at trial by jury to plead guilty and to be sentenced by a judge of a court of record was neither introduced nor advocated, as he seems to think, in the interest of wealthy or influential "aleactors." Exactly the contrary is true. It was first suggested by the magistrates presiding in inferior courts at the meeting of the State Bar Association held at Buffalo, January, 1913, and there discussed, then laid over to the adjourned meeting of that association held in Albany in March of this year, and then being discussed there sent for further consideration by that association to the Constitutional Convention, where it was strongly advocated and urged by the magistrates of inferior courts from different sections of the state, their advocacy being predicated upon the fact that unquestionably guilty of crime, wing to admit their guilt, deservous once of entering upon their term of imprisonment, frequently were detained in the county jails of the various counties for months waiting to be emancipated of a grand jury, the being a number of counties in the state in which the grand jury sits but twice, many in which it sits but three times annually.

Happening to have been the chairman of the committee of state prisons, reformatories and the prevention and punishment of crime, the force of the suggestion of the magistrates was demonstrated by a collation of statistics which showed me notwithstanding my twenty-seven years official connection with the administration of justice and the punishment of offenders.

The question presented to the people of New York is not whether the new Constitution is a faultless instrument, but whether it is an improvement upon existing conditions because the world never has seen and never will see a perfectly flawless code of laws. It is conceded that at no time in their history have the people of New York chosen representatives better fitted by character, training, learning and broadness of vision to frame a Constitution. No element of partisanship entered into their consideration of the great fundamental questions which the convention submits to the people.

It is not necessary to say that reforms make their way slowly, that always there is opposition, always a discountenance, but the action, the state, the community and the individual which advances and achieves is the one that aspires to better things and seizes them when they come within its grasp, and it is to be hoped that the people of New York will regard the new Constitution with that breadth of view and

LENORA FRANCISCO VILLA.

PRETTY WIFE OF MEXICAN REBEL LEADER.
This picture of Senora Juana Torres de Villa, wife of the famous Mexican bandit, General Francisco Villa, was made at Los Angeles, where the Senora is living with her child, born in exile, since her flight from Mexico several months ago. Villa secured his wife in true brigand style, kidnapping her from her home and carrying her away on horseback.

REAL BROUTH IN DRY ROCHESTER
Leading Citizens of That Town Write That There is Far Less Drinking and Less Pauperism.

Accord, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1915.
Editor of The Freeman:—

The writer of the article entitled, "Local Option," in Friday's issue of The Freeman has certainly not been informed as to the effects of no-license in the town of Rochester. As residents and business men of Accord, we are in the best possible position to judge rightly as to its results in our own town. Without exception its effects have been good. Nothing could induce us to seek a reversal of the no-license policy.

There is far less drinking, and very little drunkenness. Men who formerly drank are now caring for their families properly, and paying more taxes. Under no-license the town poor fund alone has decreased by more than the amount of the license fees formerly received. Constables' fees and local court expenses have been greatly lowered. Business has improved a great deal, and is more largely done on a cash basis.

The town is in much better shape financially and morally, with no-license. The law is being enforced and is generally respected. L. M. DECKER, IRA DAVENPORT, D. E. SCHOONMAKER, LEONARD MARKLE, H. B. OSTERHOUT, CHARLES ANDERSON, H. L. DEVORE, R. SMITH, R. H. TURNER.

No-License a Help to Business.

Grahamsville, N. Y., October 25, 1915.
The Town of Nevinsville, Sullivan County, N. Y., voted No-License several years ago. As business men we have been interested in the results of abolishing the saloons. We have found that without saloons, business conditions have been better than they were with saloons, and that our individual trades have increased since the town became dry. People who formerly patronized the saloons buy more provisions, furniture, and wearing apparel than before, and are able to pay cash for the same. The result is that the percentage of bad accounts is now reduced much lower than it ever was under the license system. Under no circumstances would we favor a return to license.

Porch Thieves Busy.

Porch thieves were busy on Saturday night and stole a rocking chair with leather seat from the porch of Mrs. James McIntyre No. 143 Wall street, according to word received by the police during the night. There is no clue to the identity of the thieves but the police are active on the case.

CANFIELD'S QUESTIONS UNANSWERED BY KEARNEY

Mayor Asks His Opponent to Reply to Some Very Pointed Questions Regarding His Policy if Elected, But Receives No Reply.

Office of the Mayor,
City of Kingston-New York,
Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1915.
Editor Kingston Daily Freeman.
Enclosed find copy of letter which I caused to be delivered to Mr. Kearney, and which he has failed to answer by noon today. Will you kindly publish it as I think it would be of interest to the voters.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.

Office of the Mayor,
City of Kingston-New York,
Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1915.
Ernest W. Kearney, Esq., City.
In your speech last evening you stated: "I want to say to some of you who didn't read the issue this morning, that I have announced just what men I would go to and of whom I shall seek advice, and if elected I shall appoint to office and surround myself with men of unquestioned integrity and of undoubted ability."

In pursuance to your invitation given in your speech for me to address any communication or question to you personally, and in order that the voters may know what men of unquestioned integrity and of undoubted ability you will appoint, if elected, will you kindly answer the following questions by noon of November first:

Question 1—Whom do you intend to appoint city treasurer, if elected?
Answer—
Question 2—Whom do you intend to appoint assessor, if elected?
Answer—

Question 3—Whom do you intend to appoint corporation counsel, if elected?
Answer—
Question 4—Whom do you intend to appoint superintendent of streets, if elected?
Answer—

Question 5—Whom do you intend to appoint city engineer, if elected?
Answer—
Question 6—Is the reported story true that you will appoint James Hussey city treasurer, if elected?
Answer—

Question 7—Is the reported story true that you will appoint Richard Murphy assessor, if elected?
Answer—
Question 8—Is the reported story true that you will appoint N. Frank O'Reilly corporation counsel, if elected?
Answer—

Question 9—Is the reported story true that you will appoint Frank P. Quigley superintendent of streets, if elected?
Answer—
Question 10—Is the reported story true that you will appoint a man from out of town city engineer, if elected?
Answer—

You also stated that the present year's taxes were too high, and that you would lower the tax rate, if elected. Will you kindly answer at the same time the following questions in reference thereto?

Question 11—Have you made a study of the present year's budget?
Answer—
Question 12—What specific amounts, if any, included in the said budget would you have eliminated or decreased, if you had been mayor?
Answer—

I believe that the above questions are fair and reasonable, and that you should be able to answer them in not more than half an hour's time, and considering the state made by you and Mr. Irwin in your behalf in reference to my cabinet and appointees and my tax rate, I am of the opinion that the voters are entitled to have them answered.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.

In Recorder's Court.

James Hamlin was arrested on Saturday night on the charge of public intoxication. He was discharged with a reprimand.

Reuben W. Wiene of Cold Brook was arrested on Sunday by Police man Phinney on the charge of reckless driving. He ran into a rig, doing some slight damage. The recorder imposed a fine of $5 which was paid.

INCENDIARY FIRE AT LACE MILLS

The police are investigating an apparent attempt which was made to set fire to the United States Lace Mills on Saturday night. A bundle of blazing waste was found near the main building and was burning briskly when discovered. The odor of kerosene was very strong. The matter was reported to the authorities and a rigorous investigation was put on foot. This is said to be the second attempt to burn down the lace factory which has been made within two weeks. The police are reticent concerning the matter but are said to be following important clues which may lead to the identity of the firebug.

PORT EWEN PASTOR'S FAREWELL SERMON

A large and deeply interested audience filling the auditorium to its capacity greeted the Rev. John Muyskens, Jr., of the Port Ewen Reformed Church, Sunday night as he came before his people for the last time to preach his farewell sermon. Mr. Muyskens has made many friends, not only in his own church but also among the people of the sister church (The Methodist) and they very courteously closed their church and joined with the Reformed congregation in this impressive service.

Mr. Muyskens took for his text the words: "I shall be mine with the Lord when I come to make up my jewels."

He rehearsed briefly the history of the church under his administration, especially as relating to the spiritual side stating that he had tried consistently to preach the pure gospel of Jesus Christ and rejoicing in the fact that the efforts that had been put forth had resulted in the addition of 80 members by confession of their faith in Jesus Christ as their saviour.

He characterized the souls of adult men and women as jewels and those of the children as diamond chips, both of which are very precious and spoke feelingly of the joy that he had experienced in being instrumental in helping so many souls to a better life.

In closing he expressed his sorrow in parting from his many friends in Port Ewen, notwithstanding his earnest conviction that God had called him to another field, and assured his hearers that his thought and interest and best wishes were still and would always be with his first love, the church at Port Ewen.

The church at Port Ewen recognizes the great loss it will sustain with Mr. Muyskens's departure, but wishes both he and Mrs. Muyskens God speed in their new field of opportunity.

After the service those present passed up the aisles in front of the pulpit, at which place Mr. and Mrs. Muyskens stood, and bade them farewell.

Wants Street Baptist Church.

An audience completely filling the Wurts Street Baptist Church Sunday evening heard Miss Bevan. Some stood during the entire service. It was a service of great power. Many thought Miss Bevan's sermon on "What Then Shall I Do With Jesus That is Called Christ?" the strongest one she has yet delivered. She has certainly won the hearts of the church people in Kingston and the spiritual uplift to the religious life of the city. So deep is the interest in the Wurts Street Baptist Church that Dr. Fuller announced that the special meetings would be continued on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. Miss Bevan will stay over for the Tuesday night meeting before going to Williamsport, Pa., where she begins another mission next Sunday.

Attempted Murder.

Early Sunday morning the Sabbath quietness in the neighborhood of Brigham School was broken by the pitiful cries of a deamant setter dog, which had been set upon on Brigham School yard by two vicious bulldogs. But for the timely arrival of several residents of the neighborhood, armed with clubs and brooms, the setter undoubtedly would have been killed. As it was he was badly able to stand up after the rescue and limped away leaving a trail of blood behind him, being badly bitten about the chest and head by his assailants in their effort to get his throat. It is fortunate that the affair occurred on Sunday, as on week days several hundred well-dressed dogs play about these grounds. Dogs with such dispositions should not be allowed to run the streets unmuzzled.

If woman continues to invade man's calling, she will pay a dreadful penalty in insanity and suicide and in the idiosyncrasy of her progeny, and she will wreck the chief hope of civilization—the clean, decent, happy home. The militant, militant suffragette is well along on the highway of degeneration.

Men with the courage of their convictions will resent woman's invasion of their field with their votes and by the intelligent use of

May Park School Entertains.

The little school house at May Park was the scene of a Hal-lowe'en entertainment on October 29, under the direction of Miss Anna Short, the teacher. The following program was rendered:

Song—Hurrah for Our Schools.... School.

Recitation—A Small Girl's Hallow-e'en Charm.... Eliza Van Aken.

Recitation—Little Miss Muffet.... Elsie Gill.

Duet—Keep on the Sunny Side.... Kathryn Muller, Stella Ostrander.

Recitation—The Chestnut Burr.... Girard Pardee.

Recitation—One, Two, Three.... Stella Ostrander.

Dramatization of Little Boy Blue.... Jessie Gill, Henry Van Aken, Carl Back.

Recitation—Why Cats Wash After Eating.... George Pardee.

Song—Jolly Boys.... Boys of School.

Recitation—The Night Wind.... Alanson Short.

Recitation—Dolly's Lesson.... Evelyn Clausen.

Duet—Fairy Song.... Jessie and Elsie Gill.

Recitation—Johnny's History Lesson.... William Pardee.

Recitation—Mr. Crow's Opinion.... Abram Van Aken.

Play—The Witch's Prank.... Four boys and four girls.

Recitation—Writing to Grandma.... Mildred Clausen.

Song—The Goblin Man.... Four boys and four girls.

Much credit for the success of the entertainment must be given to the teacher, Miss Anna Short and the people of the district. Ice cream and cake were served at the close of the entertainment and the people of the district who turned out in large numbers were delighted with the efforts of the young folks. William Pardee made a decided hit with his recitation. All the others were equally well versed in their parts and acquitted themselves with credit to the school and teacher as well.

GREEN CARD IGNORED.

By Obeying its Mandate Mrs. Nelson May Keep Out of Jail.

About two weeks ago while Miss Thompson, the public school nurse, was making an examination of the school children of School No. 2 (Ulster Academy) she found several visitors in the hair of Elizabeth and Sarah Nelson of Spruce street, and sent the girls home with a green card and instructions to their mother to get busy and oust the guests before the girls were sent back to school.

Time passed and as the girls did not return to school, Truant Officer John Costello was assigned the job of finding out the reason why. Friday morning he visited Spruce street and found Elizabeth playing in the city dump and enjoying herself. Shocked, he was about to place her under arrest when she spied him and fled with the truant officer in pursuit. The chase led through very swampy ground and before the officer could get near the girl his lower extremities afforded abundant material for use in making mud pies. Just as he was about to seize the girl the mother interfered and grasped Costello by the arm.

At this interesting juncture her son William appeared on the scene and took matters into his own hands by handing Costello a wallop on the eye. It could not be learned whether the wallop caused Costello to suddenly sit down or not, but anyway Saturday morning son William was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Costello and was sent to the county jail for five days on a charge of assault by Recorder Lang.

His mother, Mrs. Jane Nelson, who was also arrested and arraigned before Recorder Lang in recorder's court this morning and after hearing the evidence given by Principal Bridgeman, Miss Thompson and Truant Officer Costello and listening to Mrs. Nelson's side of the story the recorder sentenced her to ten days in the county jail, but suspended sentence on condition that she keep the children's heads clean and sent them to school.

The girls, Elizabeth and Sarah, were placed on probation until February 1, to report to Probation Officer Wiedemann each week about their attendance at school.

INSURANCE TRIAL DROPPED
Juror Withdrawn on Request of Attorney For the Plaintiff.

Because Daniel Fitzgerald had not produced enough evidence on which a jury could draw a conclusion from the facts in his suit against the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, his attorney, Ellisworth Baker, moved to withdraw a juror when the supreme court convened this morning at the court house. Judge Hasbrouck granted the motion and the jurors were discharged from further consideration of the case and court took a recess until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. This means that the suit will have to be tried again.

Mr. Fitzgerald formerly owned the property at Greenfield in the town of Wawarsing covered by the insurance and sold it to Mrs. Kottle, who gave him a mortgage on the property. She took out a policy of insurance for $1,600 with the defendant company and her son, who transacted her business, claims that at that time he told the agent he intended to take out another policy for $2,000 with another company.

The property was destroyed by fire in 1914 and the defendant company refused to pay the insurance, claiming that there was a clause in the policy which made it void if other insurance on the same property was taken out.

The plaintiff endeavored to show that this clause had been waived and that therefore the clause in the policy was invalid, but at the close of the plaintiff's testimony it was thought that not enough evidence had been submitted to prevent the suit being dismissed on the grounds that no case was proven, and in order to introduce further evidence an adjournment was taken until this morning when Mr. Baker made his motion to withdraw a juror.

Rollin B. Sanford represented the insurance company and moved that the suit be dismissed, which was denied by the court.

"Gentleman Friend" Struck Her.

Just as John F. Conlin was unlocking his front door on St. James street, near Wall street, shortly after 12 o'clock Saturday night, he heard the wild scream of a girl and rushed to the scene and found her crying. From what could be learned the girl had had a quarrel with her "gentleman friend" and he had struck her and then left. She said she lived in Ponckhockie but refused to give her name. She was sent home in a taxi.

LIST FOR KEEPER OF SENATE HOUSE

The superintendent of public buildings, who recently visited Kingston with relation to the appointment of a custodian for the old Senate House in the place of Benjamin M. Brink, stated that the new custodian would be appointed from the eligible list of the civil service commission, that commission having decided not to order a new examination. There are five persons on the eligible list, only two of whom are residents of Ulster county, the two who live here being Levi Elmendorf and Harver D. Peters. A strong effort was made to persuade the civil service commission to order a new examination in order that other applicants might have an opportunity to take it, but the commission held that as the former examination was less than four years ago, and there were more than three on the eligible list, that it was compelled by law to make a selection from that list. Irwin Winne, who for several months had charge of the Senate House during Mr. Brink's illness, was appointed temporary custodian, and still holds that position.

A debate on "Which is the most useful to the community, a bachelor or an old maid," will be held in the Grange Hall, Saturday evening, November 6. Mrs. Elliott F. Soule will speak for the benefit of the maiden lady and Edward F. Birdsall for the bachelor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Earnfield, formerly of Plattekill but now living out west, are spending several days among their many friends in this place.

Ralph and Norman Tremper of Highland and their lady friends from Poughkeepsie attended the Halloween special at the parsonage Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Siskler of West Park visited friends in this place recently.

Mrs. James Palmer and Mrs. L. Purdie have been around the past week soliciting "Votes for Women."

Delivery of Ballot Boxes.

The street department under the direction of Superintendent W. Scott Va Keuren will deliver ballot boxes all ballots to the various polling places of the city beginning at 3:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning. The clerks will receive the ballot boxes and supplies from City Clerk Cummings before they are delivered to the polls.

Italian Lemons in America.

Most of the lemons consumed in the United States come from Italy. The eastern half of the United States is almost wholly supplied from Italy, mainly through the ports of New York and New Orleans. The middle West north of Ohio receives one-half of its supply from Italy. On the other hand, the territory west of the Missouri river with western Texas uses almost exclusively California lemons.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 1, 1915.

There was a vote on the question of woman suffrage in Michigan in the year 1912. The sentiment of the State was so obviously against the proposition that a good many men, being sure of its defeat, did not take the trouble to vote. The result was that suffrage was defeated by the petty majority of 769. The question came up again in 1913. Then everybody was awake, and the adverse majority was 95,144. So it took two elections to do what should have been done in one. The lesson should not be lost upon the voters of New York. The majority against suffrage should be made so emphatic that the issue will not be raised again in years, if ever. It keeps one only a few moments longer in the voting booth to do one's full duty.

So far as the Republicans are concerned, this year's campaign has been a dignified and honest one. There has been no mudslinging or lying. There has been no appeal to the fool vote. The people have been asked to reaffirm the verdict they gave last year, so that the purification of the State Government may be completed. Locally, our candidates stand on their personality and good records, pleading in addition the consideration that the election of a straight Republican ticket is important for the purpose of strengthening the party for the struggle next year in which so much will be at stake. Reasoning like this appeals to intelligent voters. Having no such arguments to offer, our local Democrats have been driven to the expedient of holding a series of noisy meetings at which the "orators" have substituted sound and fury for sense. Some of the speakers have deliberately made misstatements, to which we have called attention, and it is well to remember the old adage, False in one, false in all. If every lover of good judgment and clean campaigning goes to the polls tomorrow, the result will be cheering.

Even after all that has been said and written, a very large percentage of our voters have but a hazy idea of the character of the proposed new Constitution. They have been too tired to study it after the end of their daily work in these hard times. Naturally, men like these are considerably influenced by the opinions of men who have made a study of the instrument. It is evident that practically all of the really big men in the State, irrespective of party, are for the new Constitution. On the other side, we find that Boss Murphy of Tammany Hall has sent out orders to all his workers and satellites to knife the Constitution. That other, eminent thinker, Harry Thaw, has given out an interview in which he says that after thorough examination of the questions he feels constrained to advise the public to vote against the Constitution and for woman suffrage. Harry says that Edwin Root is entirely wrong on these issues. When the statesmen are on one side and the grafters and murderers on the other, the ordinary voter needs but little personal investigation for his guidance.

In a statement summarizing the work which falls upon the mayor of this city, Mayor Canfield points out that he should carefully watch all legislative measures to make sure that they do not affect our interests adversely, that he should keep up to date by reading all literature concerning municipal affairs, and that he must take the lead in forming a code of ordinances for the new Board of Public Works. We think that a mayor not too much troubled by conscience could dodge this labor and take the word of other people for what is going on. But there is no dodging certain things without great and notorious discredit and injustice to the city as a whole and to its individual inhabitants. Mayor Canfield says:

He must expect to answer in connection with the duties of his office about five thousand telephone calls; receive and investigate or have investigated about six thousand complaints and requests of every kind; give audience to about three thousand callers; make about two hundred speeches or addresses as the representative of the City; write and answer about three thousand letters; and devote not less than forty hours per week of his time to the duties of the office.

Mayor Canfield has done these things. Is it the judgment of the voters that Mr. Kearney can spare the time for all this and that he has the ability to perform these tasks in such a manner as to exalt our civic pride?

Some splendid work has been done in this campaign by the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. This organization contains a large number of women who have achieved prominence by their good works and manifestations of brain power. It represents not the "shrill sisterhood," but the home-loving, quiet-desiring women of the Empire State. It has sent out over the State leaflets showing that women have no grievances under the law and that by no possibility could they reap any benefit in recompense for the labor and annoyance which suffrage would impose upon them. Here is the closing statement of the Association:

We believe in woman's rights. Primarily in her right to be exempt from the responsibilities of government. We believe the men of the State capable of conducting the government for the benefit of both men and women.

The majority of the women of New York State do not want to vote and depend upon the men not to thrust suffrage upon them.

The timely article which appeared recently in the news columns of this paper apropos the Assessorship muddle in Marbriestown should cause our readers to consider more closely the responsibilities and importance of this elective office. Especially in those towns where New York City has large holdings should the ability and character of the candidates be kept in mind. In Olive, for instance, the property values run into the millions and in Hurley and the various towns through which the aqueduct runs the Assessor's job is a very important one. The voters in these towns as well as those of the other towns in the county cannot be too particular about the character of the men whom they choose to look after the work of appraisal. Are they capable, fair-minded, sensible, and, last but not least, are they graft proof? These are questions well worthy of consideration by the electors. The Republican candidates in the field this fall seem to us to measure up to this standard.

The Silver Inkstand.

History records many an instance in which trivial incidents have shaped the destinies of nations. It appears that a small silver inkstand and the quick wit of a prime minister once played an important part in the history of the Netherlands.

William III, King of the Netherlands, was a man of violent and ungovernable temper. Although in general a clever statesman, he was inclined, for some reason or other, to involve Holland in the trouble that was brewing between France and Germany in 1870. He was deaf to the appeals of his ministers, who foresaw the ruin to the country that war would bring.

Thorbecke, the Prime Minister, resolved to make one last attempt to change his Sovereign's resolution. On entering the royal presence, Thorbecke was greeted with a rough "Good morning. What's the news?" "Nothing particular, Your Majesty," only the people of The Hague are talking a great deal of nonsense about Your Majesty.

"About me?" exclaimed the Monarch, in wrath. "What do they say about me?"

"Well, sir," answered the old statesman, "The Hagueres declare that Your Majesty has become a 'stark mad'."

Before he could utter another word, King William, his face purple with rage, jumped up and seized a heavy silver inkstand, with the intention of hurling it at the head of the Premier. Fortunately, a projectile angle of the inkstand caught in the tablecloth, and dragged it off the table with everything upon it. In the confusion, the discharge of the missile was delayed for a moment.

Sir," said Thorbecke, quietly, "Your Majesty hurled that beautiful inkstand at my head. The Hagueres will have much reason for their assertion."

For a minute the angry King gazed in silence at his minister. Then he gradually lowered his arm and replaced the inkstand on the table.

He walked to one of the windows and stood looking out into the street for a few minutes. Returning to the table, he resumed his seat and said, as if nothing had happened:

"And now tell me what you have got to say."

An hour later, when the statesman left, he carried with him the Monarch's promise to issue a proclamation that would declare the neutrality of The Netherlands.

THOMPSON IS SARCASTIC.

Former U. S. Consul Assails Roosevelt in German Newspaper.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Berlin, Nov. 1.—Robert J. Thompson, formerly American Consul at Aix-la-Chapelle, who recently is said to have subscribed $125,000 to a German war loan, assails Theodore Roosevelt in a letter published by the "Tageblatt." He says:

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:
"I am addressing this communication to you, as you are such a mighty hunter."
"Beasts of Prey! Excellent Hunting! Great Opportunity for Sportsmen!"

"This is what we read on the recruiting placards that for nearly a year have adorned the walls and public places in Great Britain. A question asked in Parliament recently as to the reason for such placards brought the answer that such a lure was absolutely necessary in order to gain volunteers of all classes. There is nothing which is more disgusting to a neutral visitor in England than this example of English humor, which is the fruit of the 'Horror Factory in Fleet Street.'"

"Beasts of Prey" is a striking characterization. If I am not mistaken, this term belongs to the shibboleth which has been preached by the British Ministry of War, and it is going to play an important role when the reckoning day comes between Germany and England. The 'Beasts of Prey' placard should grace the title page of Bryce's Atrocity Report. I recently lived for a considerable time among the Huns and the barbarians along the Rhine. In fact, I was a guest in the home of one of the chief barbarians—right in the midst of these murderers, liars, pirates and murderers of children—these Germanic Huns who in the literature of London and the war reports are defended in such a masterly fashion. Indeed, I saw a fine example of a 'beast of prey' face to face. My impressions, which affected me deeply, I will endeavor to explain.

"In the suburbs of Munich there resides, at present a wild and dangerous, specimen of barbarian; he can often be seen at a safe distance in the university of that city. Professor Wilhelm Rontgen is his name, and some years ago he discovered the well known X-ray, and he was the first who received the famous Nobel prize from the Swedish government. It is claimed that, more lives have been saved by means of the Rontgen ray than any other discovery ever made.

"The foundation of the Nobel prize dates from the year 1895, when Nobel died, and the first prize was awarded three years later. The awards are made in the departments of physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and activity for world peace. Is not significant that of the sixty prizes awarded since 1901, one third have gone to the land of the Huns and barbarians? In that time America received three prizes—one of Professor Michelson, of the Chicago University, another to Elihu Root and one to yourself, Mr. Roosevelt—the two latter being peace prizes.

"While the child murderers and barbarians in this period received prizes amounting to 300,000 pounds sterling, England, in her own estimation the 'light and hope of the world,' only received eight. "In Frankfurt on the Main there is fine game to be had for the hunter. Up to a short time ago, the blood thirsty Professor Ehrlich had his hiding place here. This physician also received a Nobel prize, one of the twenty of which I have spoken.

"I pushed the electric button—it was soon before he died—on house No. 1 in the Paul-Ehrlich Strasse. It is a very bad habit of the Germans to name their streets after thieves and murderers, such as Paul-Ehrlich Strasse, Ernst-Haeckel Strasse, Wilhelm-Rontgen Platz, Gerhart-Hauptmann Allee, etc. And I remember now that in my beloved native city of Chicago they also follow this custom, and one of the gentlemen so honored ended his day in prison and another was driven from the city by embarrassing publicity. I mentioned this on one occasion to Professor Haeckel and he replied laughingly that there was no such danger in Jona, as he had now passed his eightieth year, and the older he got the less likelihood there was that he would disgrace his fair city. However, when I spoke to Professor Ehrlich of Roosevelt and his German hunting expedition he said to me (and it was perhaps the last of his utterances on public matters) that he was sorry he could not say much regarding this hunt of beasts of prey as he was too busy with his microscope. 'But you tell Mr. Roosevelt,' he said, 'when you write to him, that I regard this great war as one that was forced on Germany against her will, and all she can do now is to fight to the end. Germany is fighting for her existence and is battling for liberty and culture. All of us who are not fortunate enough to be fighting at the front are doing at home whatever we can to assist financially and morally. In this critical time every man in Germany stands at his post fighting for German commerce and for German culture.'

"Thus spoke that great Hun Ehrlich in that haunt of barbarism, Frankfurt on the Main. The hope of the world and the preserver of Christianity demands that the Canadian troops seek out these beasts of prey. Unfortunately, my dear Roosevelt, this man died before his time, to the great regret of the whole world."

KINGSTON DOES NOT NEED TWO CORONERS

On the eve of election the attention of voters is again called to the fact that Ulster county tomorrow will elect a coroner, and the geographical location of the candidates points to the desirability of electing George Suter of Marlborough, the Republican candidate who is now holding the office by appointment by Governor Whitman, who named him to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Coroner Alexander C. Hasbrouck of Highland.

Ulster county has three coroners, each of whom receives a salary of $500 a year, out of which each pays his own traveling expenses. At the present time Coroner Ernest A. Kelly cares for all coroner's cases arising in this city and in the northern part of the county; Coroner H. Lee Brethaupt of Phoenicia answers calls from the Catskill Mountain region, and Coroner Suter is called in the cases in Southern Ulster which require the attendance of a coroner. While a coroner's jurisdiction extends throughout the county the very nature of the case makes it desirable that a coroner be summoned who can attend quickly, and the present geographical distribution of the coroners makes this possible.

Kingston does not need two coroners, which it will have if the Democratic candidate is elected, and unless Mr. Suter is elected the entire southern part of the county will be deprived of a coroner. Common decency dictates that the present arrangement of coroners shall not be disturbed. Kingston city voters therefore should vote for Coroner Suter.

SOUTH ROUNDTOWN

GIMBEL BROTHERS

Broadway and 33d Street New York

NOTHING more forcibly illustrates "Progress" than the rapid growth of the GIMBEL Store in New York.

In five years this store has solidly entrenched itself in the public's confidence and built a business millions of dollars in excess of that annually done by stores founded generations ago in the metropolis.

"Progress" at every step symbolizes the growth of the GIMBEL Store—a store of ideas, ideals and ACTION!

From the first hour that this GIMBEL Store was planned "Progress" has been constantly associated with it.

"Progress" was one of the foundations of the first GIMBEL Store more than seven decades ago. And no GIMBEL enterprise has ever been dissociated from that word of spirit of endeavor and action.

As one of the founders of the New York GIMBEL Store recently said at a meeting attended by other members of the firm and executive heads:

"November is to be distinguished by a sale for PROGRESS. It is not to be the style of sale for the purpose of being able to announce your having a sale, but because it is based on merits worthy of special attention on part of the public."

And there you have one of the fundamental reasons for the success of the GIMBEL Store—"based on merit."

What else but "Progress," energy, endeavor, "based on merit" could rear such a magnificent store, stock it with $6,000,000 worth of new merchandise, and command such a vast and steadily increasing patronage?

"Progress" in every thought and act!

Thoroughly modern in every detail, as thoroughly efficient as human endeavor, constant and sincere, can make it; wholly representative in its merchandise, and employing a system of pricing that makes it profitable for people to purchase here, it is not surprising that the GIMBEL Store should make such a headway in a field that presented seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

Out of the amazing activities of October, the month of GIMBEL, the still greater achievements, still broader and more ambitious sales plan, justified, we believe, the GIMBEL claim that "Progress" is the spirit of the Store.

Welcome, November, at GIMBEL.

Fell From a Car.

Frank West, known as "Brannigan" colored, who is employed on the coal trestle of the North River Coal Company on West Strand, was seriously injured this morning. He fell from a car on which he was working into one of the bins of coal. Dr. A. A. Stern was called and found that Brannigan was suffering from a scalp wound, his shoulder blade was broken and he was otherwise bruised. His condition is regarded as serious. The man was removed to the Kingston City Hospital in the ambulance. West was employed for a number of years on the D. & H. coal docks.

Glory of the Laurel.

The most beautiful plant of the flora of North America is the mountain laurel, named by the great Linnaeus himself in honor of his favorite pupil, Peter Kalm, who discovered it while traveling in America almost two centuries ago. For a few weeks every spring the laurel makes countless hill-sides and forest glades from New Hampshire to Louisiana indescribably lovely, with its clusters of pink and white blossoms.—Boston Herald.

Labor and the Proposed Constitution

Many Proposals of Great and Direct Benefit to Laboring Men.

Committee For the Adoption of the Constitution
Explains Labor Provisions.

Albany, Oct. 31.—The Committee For the Adoption of the Constitution has issued a statement, in which it analyzes and explains the provisions of the new Constitution which will be of benefit to the laboring men, as follows: It is not our intention to make any class appeal to the laboring men of the state. We have confidence that they, like other citizens, will vote as they believe the public good will be advanced. We have every confidence that thousands of workmen clearly see that the attempt of the proposed Constitution to bring order out of chaos, to bring government into the open, to simplify and to make it responsible, will greatly advance that public good to which we must all contribute.

But attempts have been made to misrepresent the proposed Constitution as impairing existing rights, as being intended to prevent social progress in the future. It is our duty to combat such misrepresentation because it is untrue.

On the day of the adjournment of the convention, J. Edgar H. Curran, one of the labor delegates, in casting his vote for the adoption of the Constitution, said:

"While, in my opinion, labor should not expect all that it requested, it seems to me at least it got its fair share. Let me say that, while I have spent all my life among workers and have been a member of a trade organization for thirty years and prominent in almost all its councils, I believe I should use a judgment of my own. If I believed that this convention did not give some recognition to the people who were unable to speak for themselves, through their representatives, I might take an opposite view. I believe this proposed Constitution should be adopted at the polls. It will be many a year before the working people will get the relief they now seek if these amendments are defeated."

Nothing induced Mr. Curran to arrive at this conclusion except a clear and accurate knowledge of what had transpired in the Constitutional Convention.

From a meeting assembled in Utica the State Federation of Labor presented a number of matters for the consideration of the Constitutional Convention. No other organization in the state presented so many changes in widely separated fields, touching almost every article of the Constitution. These proposals were printed by the convention as Document No. 17.

Two Groups of Proposals.
These proposals fell into two groups. The first consisted of requests to broaden the legislature's power to enact social and labor legislation. The second consisted of proposals for changes in the machinery of government or requests that existing machinery be left as it is.

In the first group was the request that the legislature be empowered to extend workmen's compensation to occupational diseases—that is, diseases like "bends" and lead poisoning, which are a direct result of a particular employment. A fight was made against this proposal, but it was approved.

Again, it was asked that the legislature be empowered to regulate or prohibit manufacturing in tenements. The factory laws, health laws, child labor laws and laws limiting the hours of labor cannot now be enforced in tenement houses as they are in factories. Under the proposed Constitution this need no longer be the case.

Thus the legislative power of the state, already broader than that of most states, was still further extended. Earnest efforts were made on the part of some delegates to impose new restrictions and limitations. All such proposals were voted down.

An attempt was made specifically to prohibit a minimum wage law. This proposal was defeated.

The proposed Constitution retains all present power to enact laws for social insurance against sickness, invalidity, old age or unemployment. That the courts will uphold such legislation was indicated by the opinion of the Court of Appeals in "The Matter of Jensen," rendered while the convention was in session. Attempts to insert into the proposed Constitution provisions which would prevent such legislation were defeated.

Machinery of Government.

The second group of labor requests dealt with the machinery of government. It was specifically asked that the State Department of Labor and its functions be recognized in the Constitution. The Constitutional Convention gave such recognition and in so doing sought to give to the Labor Department a stability and standing which it has never heretofore had. In the past, as every laboring man knows, it has frequently been "in politics." The proposed change will largely take it out of politics and protect it against partisan "ripper" legislation. It was pointed out with great force that laboring men cannot afford to serve in the legislature under present conditions unless labor unions contribute support in addition to the official salary. This matter was given serious attention and, in spite of considerable opposition, a reasonable increase was granted. In so doing the Constitutional Convention as a matter of justice took upon itself the burden of a change known to be unpopular in the agricultural sections of the state.

The State Federation urged that the power of the governor to expedite legislation by the use of the emergency message be abolished. The first proposal finally adopted by the Constitutional Convention enacted this recommendation.

In addition, the proposed Constitution complies with the formulated requests of the State Federation of Labor in retaining short terms for the governor and legislators, in retaining annual legislative sessions and in retaining the elective judiciary. On each of these matters there were strong movements in the opposite direction.

Other Beneficial Provisions.
The proposed Constitution contains three other provisions not urged or recommended by the State Federation of Labor which are nevertheless of great and proper benefit to labor.

The legislature is empowered to provide a system whereby voters absent during the regular times of registration may qualify to vote. Thousands of railway employees lose their right to vote under the present Constitution because they cannot register.

The legislature is required to print a daily record of its legislative sessions. Lawmaking will have to be done in the open. The very great desirability of this change requires no argument.

A courageous attempt is made to eliminate the present scandalous delays of the law. So far as a constitution can do it, the proposed Constitution commands the legislature to cut through the red tape of lawsuits and to bring about speedier and cheaper justice.

As to Military Tribunals.

These are facts ascertainable from the proposed Constitution and the records of the Constitutional Convention. We do not believe that there could have been the slightest success in attempting to represent the proposed Constitution as a reactionary document if it had not been for the now fully exploded contention of ex-Judge Cullen that the civil rights of citizens were not secure against military tribunals. We will pass over the absurdity of the contention that civil liberty is suddenly endangered by a new Constitution which contains every safeguard of the present and past constitutions of the state. For the information of those who desire to go into the matter fully we refer to President Root's brief, which admittedly has completely disposed of Judge Cullen's legal argument. For the benefit of those who do not care to go into legal distinctions the facts may be summarized as follows:

The proposed Constitution contains every existing guarantee of civil rights. It extends the new guarantee of the equal protection of the laws.

To have inserted the provision urged by the State Federation of Labor would not have strengthened these guarantees in the least. The case Judge Cullen cites in West Virginia occurred in spite of the fact that the Constitution of the State contains a prohibition against military tribunals. The West Virginia courts set the whole State Constitution aside. In such cases a sure and sufficient protection is found in the Constitution of the United States. Rather than have the action of his state court reversed by the supreme court of the United States, the governor of West Virginia pardoned the men who had been constitutionally sentenced by military tribunals. The liberty of the citizen is just as secure under the proposed Constitution as under the present one. Judge Cullen himself was chairman of a committee of the State Bar association this spring which made nineteen recommendations for constitutional changes and did not even suggest the necessity for any amendment relating to military tribunals.

The proposed Constitution does not contain a single reactionary provision with regard to social and industrial welfare. It does not treat legislation promoting such welfare as a form of special privilege. It makes future amendment no more difficult than at present. In the fields of state finance, administrative machinery and the legislature it provides for great and far-reaching reforms. For these reasons we are confident that the vote on Nov. 2 will show that laboring men, like all other citizens, have supported the proposed change in this Constitution because of their conviction that it advances the welfare of the whole people of the state.

Cause for Suspicion.

Somebody has discovered the name omelet is a fine restorer when taken at breakfast the morning after a night out. But isn't this calculated to bring the name omelet under suspicion in well-regulated families. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Novelist Was Haitian.

It is a strange fact that the turbulent and primitive land of Haiti should produce Alexander Dumas, the world's greatest writer of adventure stories, an artist of high attainments and a great personality. He was born in Haiti of native and white blood.

NOTES OF PROGRESS IN KINGSTON Y.M.C.A.

The big Y. M. C. A. membership campaign will be brought to a close on Tuesday evening at the association. Saturday the membership teams secured 19 members, making the total so far secured 372. This makes the membership of the association to date around 900 members. Every effort will be made to make the total membership 1,000. The association has arranged to receive the election returns at the building and they will be given in the auditorium. The returns of the membership campaign will also be given. It is hoped that every one contemplating joining the association will send in his membership application before the campaign is brought to a close. Every effort has and is being made to see every man and boy in the city but it is almost a physical impossibility to do so. If you are one of those who have not been seen as yet, do not wait but send in your application anyway. The association needs you.

Two more churches have entered teams in the Y. M. C. A. Indoor Baseball Church League which will be started some time this month. The two churches are the First Dutch Reformed Church and the Wurts Street Baptist Church. The other churches that have entered teams are the Roundout Presbyterian Church, the First Presbyterian Church and the Trinity M. E. Church.

Wednesday evening every member of the employed boys' class is urged to be at the gym as teams will be selected for a basketball league to run during the winter, and if they want to play on one of the teams they should make it a point to be present when the teams are chosen.

TWO KINGSTON
SURGEONS HONORED

On Friday of last week in Boston, Mass., Dr. A. A. Stern and Dr. E. E. Norwood of this city were honored by the American College of Surgeons with the degree of Fellowship of that institution, entitling them to hereafter write the letters F. A. C. S. (Fellow of the American College of Surgeons) after their names.

The only other person in Kingston upon whom this degree has been conferred is Dr. George Chandler. In order to be eligible to this degree a surgeon must have done extensive work in major surgery and must pass a rigid examination and investigation by the college. This degree is the equivalent in America to that conferred by the British College of Surgeons abroad. The aims of the college is to raise the standard of surgery to the highest plane.

"Kitty Mackay" Tonight.

Marguerite Fields will open here tonight with "Kitty Mackay" a play headlined as sweet as "Peg O' My Heart," you all know that Kitty went to see London. But, all the world is going to see "Kitty Mackay." The matinee tomorrow will be "The Climax" and tomorrow night "The Common Law."

Christina Klein is Missing.

Notice has been sent to the police department that Christina Klein, aged 17 years, of First avenue, is missing. She has light red hair, a round face and grey eyes. On the right hand the girl has a deeply sunken knuckle. No reason can be ascribed for her strange disappearance.

Movies of Local Scenes.

The Fire Boys will hold a dance at Washington Hall this evening. In addition there will be several reels of moving pictures of many local scenes. Among them will be reels of the fire department in action and other local incidents.

Happiness in Moderation.

"Look about you for the man who is happiest in his success. You will find him of moderate habit."

Funeral on the arrival of the city delivered tomorrow addresses: 2:30 West Store train on Tuesday afternoon, November 2, 1915. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Rachel A. Williamson, wife of Abram Eckert of Newburgh, died on Wednesday in Walkill. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at St. John's Church in Newburgh.

Edward Davis, an old and respected resident of Ashokan, died Monday, November 1, in his 65th year of age after a brief illness. Funeral will be held from the Ashokan M. E. Church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Mrs. Mary E. Smedes, widow of Nathaniel B. Smedes, died on Saturday at her home, No. 53 Hoffman street, aged 80 years. She was the mother of James Smedes. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her late residence. Interment in Church of the Comforter cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Wells died last Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith, in Walden. The funeral was held Wednesday, the Rev. W. H. Lofthouse officiating. Deceased was a daughter of N. Mackrel and was born in Samserville 61 years ago. About twenty years ago she moved to Montgomery. Her husband and several children and grandchildren survive.

Charles H. Cutler, an engineer on the Ontario & Western railroad, died on Thursday night in Hackensack Hospital, as the result of injuries received in an accident at Ridgefield Park, when he was struck by a fence as his train was running and both legs were cut off. He was 80 years old, a native of Centerville, Sullivan county. His wife, who was Miss Anna Hoag of Lew Beach, and three children survive.

The funeral of Georgietta L. Arnold, wife of Paul E. Coutant, was held on Sunday afternoon from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Jay E. Roundout on West Chestnut street. The Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, pastor of the Roundout Presbyterian Church officiated and paid a high tribute to the worth of Mrs. Coutant. The bearers were Harry G. Smith, Hugh McCullough, Charles R. O'Connor, Dr. Arthur McCragin and Harold Van Deusen. The interment was in Montrose cemetery.

Andrews Vallette Haight, head of the A. V. Haight Printing Company, died on Saturday at his home in Poughkeepsie. He was born in Ellenville in 1842. He learned the printer's trade in the office of the Ellenville Journal and then was employed on the Kingston Freeman. After working here some time he went to New York where he worked until the breaking out of the civil war. Mr. Haight enlisted in the Ninth Regiment and was transferred to the Twentieth, and later re-enlisted in the Fourth N. Y. Cavalry. At the conclusion of the war Mr. Haight went to California and worked on the San Francisco Call. While in that state he was head of the state printing department at Sacramento. In 1868 Mr. Haight returned to Ellenville, where he became one of the partners in the Ellenville Journal, later coming to Kingston, where he remained four years as superintendent of The Freeman. In 1878 he purchased the job department of The Eagle. Mr. Haight is survived by a widow and three daughters. The deceased was prominent in the Masonic fraternity.

Conrad Sauter died about 3 o'clock this morning at his home, No. 12 Hurley avenue, from injuries sustained in a fall down a flight of stairs on Sunday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock. Mr. Sauter made his home with his son, John J. Sauter, who, with his wife had gone out for a walk that afternoon leaving his father alone in the house. When they returned a short time later they found that the front door did not open easily and upon pushing it open they found Mr. Sauter lying on the floor against the door with his head resting in a pool of blood on the floor. Dr. O'Meara and Little were immediately summoned and found that Mr. Sauter had sustained a fracture at the base of the skull. Owing to his advanced age no hope for his recovery was held out. It was evident that Mr. Sauter was about to go down stairs when he tripped on the top step and plunged headlong to the floor below. When found he was in an unconscious state. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence with interment in Hurley.

Draper Again Indicted.

Clifton C. Draper, son of Henry W. Draper, a wealthy paper box manufacturer of Albany, who was freed after being convicted of inducing Anna Lourey and Frances Decker of this city to lead improper lives, on his appeal to the appellate division, has again been indicted by the Albany grand jury. He is charged with rape in the second degree, it being claimed that the Lourey girl was under 18 years old. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500. His attorney, Charles B. Templeton, charges that Draper is being hounded by the police.

Mr. Chase's Busy Day.

The Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase of this city delivered tomorrow addresses: 2:30 West Store train on Tuesday afternoon, November 2, 1915. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

HURT IN RUNAWAY
NEAR WHITEPORT

While Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jackson of Brooklyn, who are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Davis on the Hurley road, and Mr. Davis were out for a carriage ride Sunday the patent shaft coupling on the wagon broke while going down the steep hill on the road from Hurley to DeWitt's mill near the upper DeWitt mill pond. The shafts dropped on the horse's heels and, being a spirited animal, it took fright and ran. In rounding the turn near the John Melk residence the wagon upset throwing out the occupants. Mrs. Jackson sustained a fractured leg and the men were somewhat bruised. The wagon was demolished and the horse continued up the road and was caught near Castor's hotel at Bloomington. The animal was somewhat injured about the legs. A taxicab was summoned from Kingston to take Mrs. Jackson to the Wauna Sanitarium on Albany avenue where she was attended by Dr. O'Leary who reduced the fracture. Mrs. Jackson's mother from Boston was summoned and is with her at the Wauna.

Mr. Jackson escaped with a few slight bruises but Mr. Davis suffered from a sprained back and shock as a result of the accident but was able to continue to his home on the Hurley road.

Central-Hudson Change of Time.

Beginning this evening the boats of the Central-Hudson line will leave at 5 o'clock, instead of 4:30 p. m. The steamer Newburgh has taken the place of the William F. Romer, which has been laid up for the season. The boats of the line have been very busy of late and will continue running as late as the elements permit.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Vote for Alderman Martin
for Supervisor, 12th Ward

The candidate for Supervisor in the Twelfth ward is the man who at the present time is representing that ward in the common council, and who, during the four years he has been in the council, has demonstrated over and over again, his knowledge of the functions of government and his interest in the taxpayers and the people of his ward.

William B. Martin's record in the common council has won for him the appreciation of hosts of men of all parties and of all sections of the city. Progressive always, he has nevertheless been one of the most careful men the council has ever had included in its membership in the matter of spending the public money, always exacting full return for the money expended. The record that he has achieved is decidedly to his credit and marks him as a man who may be depended upon. If elected to membership in the next board of supervisors, to perform every duty zealously, ably and conscientiously, ever having in mind the conserving of the interests of the whole people and ever exerting himself for the benefit and for the interests of all the people. Mr. Martin is a young man, notwithstanding his ripened experience. He is active, energetic, earnest and above all else a worker. He is popular with the young men of his ward and has the confidence to the fullest extent of the older men.

The city will need, in the next board of supervisors, representatives exactly of the calibre of Mr. Martin. This will be an imperative need. The voters of the Twelfth ward are alive to the ability of Mr. Martin and knowing the need for able city men in the county board, should see the duty of electing him by a resounding vote. A vote, in this instance, for Mr. Martin, who is a candidate in a single ward of the city, is a vote in the interests of the city at large. Don't fail to support with your ballot this man who has proven his efficiency and his civic spirit.

Mr. Martin's candidacy appeals to men of all parties who feel as Governor Hughes once remarked: "Highbrow, narrow partisanship should have no place in our local civic affairs. It is all a question of men and their adaptability, and not a question of party policy."

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Harry P. Pitts entertained at cards on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Alfred Tyler Robinson of New York city.

Dorothy Helen Wingert of No. 1 Walnut street entertained a few of her little friends Saturday afternoon at her fourth birthday.

A Halloween party was given by Miss Harriett Carman and brother Samuel, of St. Remy to a number of their girl and boy friends on Saturday evening at the home of S. G. Haines. After a very enjoyable time and the serving of refreshments, the little guests returned to their several homes greatly pleased.

A Halloween social will be given by the Central-Hudson line on the Hebrew school on Spring street, Tuesday evening, November 2. It is hoped that all the members will be present as a considerable business plans regarding the coming bazaar and dance which is to be held at St. Mary's Hall on November 9 and 10 are to be discussed, aside from the social.

The Twaalfskill Club house was superbly decorated with autumn leaves and autumn flowers on Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Rodney B. Osterhout, Mrs. E. D. B. Loughran and Miss Sarah Horton, assisted by Miss Marjorie Drake, Miss Dorothy Schoonmaker, Miss Margaret Loughran and Miss Kate Van Giten, received the members of the club who came in large number to witness the semi-finals in the ladies' putting match.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed at the home of Miss Ruth Kidd on Franklin street, when a number of her friends tendered her a Halloween party. Games, dancing and singing were indulged in by the merry party after which a clam chowder supper was served. Those present were Miss Ruth Kidd, James Roe, Helen Folant, Ralph Griffin, Katherine Martin, Harold Cunningham, Bess Martin, Luke Johnson, Helen McMahon, James Geary, Margaret Lebert, Frank Roe. The guests departed at a wee sma' hour, all declaring Miss Kidd a royal hostess.

Perry-McCardle.

Miss Catherine Theresa McCardle, daughter of Mrs. Mary McCardle of No. 107 Pine Grove avenue, and Michael Edward Perry of No. 17 Staples street, were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock in St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. John H. Brody. The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Smith while Christopher J. Perry, a brother of the groom, was best man. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Perry. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Perry left that evening on a wedding tour and upon their return will reside at No. 170 Pine Grove avenue. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for a prosperous and happy married life.

Smith-Fuller.

The Wurts Street Baptist Church was the scene on Saturday evening, of an impressive wedding, when at eight o'clock, Miss Paula Elizabeth Fuller, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Fuller, and Frederick Polhemus Smith of New York city were united in marriage.

The church was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns and large yellow chrysanthemums. The assembled guests were treated to a delightful pre-nuptial organ recital given by Miss Ellen M. Fuller, L. R. A. M., A. G. O., of Scranton, Penn., and a friend of the bride. Just previous to the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. A. K. Fuller, father of the bride, Miss Beran sang, "Beloved, It Is

The work of installation of the police signal system is progressing finely. Some of the apparatus has been installed at police headquarters at the city hall and linemen are busy completing the wiring of the city streets.

DEAN SWIFT AND HIS CHOIR.

Singers, Like Poets, Must Be Very Good, He Wrote.

A characteristic letter written by Dean Swift in reference to an application by a Mr. Lovelace for a vacant place in the choir of St. Patrick's cathedral, Dublin, appears in the appendix to the thirteenth report of the historical MSS. commission. Musical News gives an extract:

"I desire you will ask my Lord Ossford whether his brother Nathaniel understands music; if he does and recommends Mr. Lovelace particularly from his own knowledge, something may be said. I have the honour to be captain of a band of nineteen musicians (including boys); but my quire is so degenerated under the reigns of former Deans of famous memory that the race of people called Gentleman Lovers of Music tell me that I must be very careful in supplying two vacancies, which I have been two years endeavoring to do so."

"For you are to understand that in disposing the musical employments I determine to act directly contrary to Ministers of State by giving them to those who best deserve. If you had recommended a person to me for a Church living in my gift I would be less curious; because an indifferent person may do well enough, if he be honest; but singers, like their brothers the poets, must be very good, or they are good for nothing."

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER ALBANY HIGH SCHOOL

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Nov. 1.—Mark Payne, captain of the Albany high school football team, was the star of the game against the Kingston team last night. Payne, a sophomore, was the only player to kick a goal from the field, the 67 yard line, but you haven't heard anything about it because Mark doesn't go to Yale, or Princeton, or Harvard.

Payne's accomplishment is the most wonderful in football history, yet his mark has been almost overlooked because one person regarded it as a "minor league" simply because the football for Dakota Wesleyan is not of the one of the alleged "major institutions of learning" in the U. S.

What difference does it make what a man plays for? Let's just say it is hard to get a small college to play on a 163 yards as it is for a player on a big eleven?

Nothing Like About Kick.

It was in the Dakota Wesleyan-Northern Normal game in Aberdeen, S. D., on October 18, that Payne, dropping back to the 62 yard line—some say it was the 65 yard line—caught the perfect pass of his center, passed himself, dropped the ball even as a "minor league" were hurling themselves at him, met it on the rebound with a swing of his mighty right foot and sent the ball soaring over the cross-bar of the enemy's goal.

Payne's driving kick surprised every person who saw that game. When he dropped back of the line, it was figured that he might try a forward pass, or a punt. A drop kick, so he never would try that. The distance was too far, the wind was against him, but Payne tried, and he succeeded, and by his success he has carved for himself in football's Hall of Fame a noticeable niche.

Payne's Kick Beat O'Dea's. Payne's kick beat by one yard that memorable foot event by Pat O'Dea, the great Wisconsin player, the man who ranked as one of the most wonderful kickers in the entire history of the game. It was made on November 25, 1898, in the game against Northwestern. Some who saw the boot claimed that it was only a 60 yard kick, but the officials ruled that the ball dropped on the 62 yard line, and O'Dea got credit for a 62 yard drop kick, which remained as the record for 17 years until quiet, unassuming Mark Payne, the "minor league" made it 63.

On November 20, 1892, J. T. Hall, of Princeton, kicked a 65 yard goal from placement in the game against Yale, but placement kicking and drop kicking are entirely different matters.

Payne's kick puts him first in the record book, placing him ahead of second and leaving third place tied by L. V. Cowling and J. E. Dwyer, Cowling, playing for Harvard in a game against Princeton, November 17, 1888, made a drop kick from the 55 yard line, and J. E. Dwyer, of Michigan, tied that mark when he kicked a field goal from the 55 yard line in the game against Cornell, November 21, 1891.

The best drop kicks during the past few years, with Payne's excluded, were executed by Harold Humphreys, of Yale, 49 yards, against Princeton, November 19, 1912, and Hobey Baker, of Princeton, 47 yards, against Yale, November 15, 1912.

Carl Woods, of Tulane University tops the list of modern goal-from-placement kickers. On November 1, 1911, in the game against St. Louis University, he kicked a goal from placement from the 18 yard line against Harvard on November 1, 1911. R. J. Brown, of Rochester, kicked from the 17 yard line against St. Lawrence, October 7, 1911. Charles Brinkley, of Harvard, made a placement kick for Harvard against Princeton, November 2, 1912, and Hobey Baker kicked from placement for Princeton from the 46 yard line against Holy Cross, November 1, 1913.

KINGSTON DEFEATS LEAGUE BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FOR WEEK

Kingston high put a damper on Albany high school's championship by defeating them last night. Bernstein's trusty kicking a goal from the field, the 67 yard line, but you haven't heard anything about it because Mark doesn't go to Yale, or Princeton, or Harvard.

Taylor of Albany scored the first goal after a persistent march down the field. With a strong wind against him, he missed the try for goal. Kingston received the next kick off and from her forty yard line worked the ball goal-ward with much greater speed than that of the Albany backfield. In a short time Pehleman worked through for a touchdown.

The Albany team had greatly improved since the first game of the year, which was won here by the 10-6. The line charged quickly and hard and played a good defensive game with the exception of the second quarter.

As usual, Kingston was slow to get warmed up. But after the Albany touchdown the line strengthened and the Albanians couldn't pass the twenty yard line. Many times in the last period Albany had the ball around that point but continually lost it on downs.

Joyce, McAuley, Pehleman and Wheeler starred for Kingston, while Taylor and Sutherland shone for the Albanians.

This victory, the hardest won of the year, makes it six straight, with no defeats to account for. If Kingston can successfully clean up Newburgh and Poughkeepsie it can just about claim the championship of the Hudson.

With the wind favoring Albany, Kingston received the kick-off. Wheeler ran it out of bounds at the thirty-five yard line. Pehleman carried ten yards around left end, but was called back, time not being called in. Twissiger and Wheeler gained on end runs but a forward to Joyce failed. Pehleman punted. A fumble made 20 yards around right end. Twissiger and Pehleman advanced steadily until within fifteen yards of the goal when an incomplete pass on the last down presented the ball to Albany. End runs and line plunges quickly moved the ball down the field until the Kingston line suddenly strengthened and Taylor punted over the goal. The ball was put in play on the twenty yard mark.

The Albany line held firmly and Pehleman punted. Small but persistent gains through tackle and center steadily worked Albany nearer the goal until Taylor shot through the ranks for the first touchdown.

Whoever, who until this time had been playing left half, exchanged positions with Pehleman at full and quickly made a great improvement in the local's playing. From the time Kingston received the kick-off the nation and white showed their old-time fighting form. From the thirty-five yard line the goal is just about 15 yards. With their "pep" returned the line ripped big holes in the Albany defense, and punning them to left and right Wheeler and Pehleman, gaining about ten yards at a time, covered the distance in about 57 seconds. To Pehleman fell the honor of planting his elbows over the goal. Bernstein then kicked the ball between the posts for the winning point.

At the resumption of play in the second half, Albany received the kick but a few seconds later fumbled. Wheeler grabbing it, almost had a touchdown, but was fopped ten yards from the goal. Two futile line plunges on the right side and then Pehleman worked himself through for a few yards. When everything was becoming rose "his unps" was sure that Pehleman had been illegally assisted onward. The fifteen yard penalty put a crimp in hopes for a touchdown that time. Wheeler tried a drop but it was blocked. Johnson recovering it some twenty yards back Kingston was held for downs. Conley broke through for twenty-five yards and everything seemed to darken for the down-riverites. Another long run by Sutherland placed the ball close to Kingston's twenty yard line.

The fourth period shifted Kingston to a position with the wind at their backs. Perhaps this helped, but anyway that old Kingston fight, percolated everybody and for ten solid minutes the game resembled K. A. C. A. contests, so bitter was the struggle. Albany was held for downs and Kingston tried a hand at the offense game. Pehleman kicked out of bounds twenty yards down the field. Jones punctured the Kingston line and ran 25 yards before he was brought down by Hallinan. Albany lost again on downs. Kingston fumbled and Albany recovered it. "Twas no use, because they simply couldn't break through the stone-wall defense that was before them. The Kingston backfield seemed to be taken over. They fumbled often and couldn't gain ground. With darkness settling the game ended with Albany in possession of the ball. The line-up:

Albany—Brant, L. E.; Hughes, L. T.; Hubbell, L. G.; Mattice, C.; Delehaan, C. G.; Streibert, R. T.; Danic, R. C.; Conley, C. B.; Taylor, L. H. B.; Sutherland, R. H. B.; Jones, F. B.
Kingston—Joyce, L. E.; Gill, L. T.; Bernstein, L. E.; Hallinan, C. McAuley, R. C.; Palsi, R. T.; Johnson, R. C.; Gregory, G. B.; Pehleman, L. H. B.; Twissiger, R. H. B.; Wheeler, F. B.
Touchdowns—Taylor, Pehleman. Goal from touchdown, Bernstein. Referee, F. M. Wright, Dickinson; timekeeper, Noble, umpire, Shrick; head linesman, Blanchard.

Schedule For This Week.

Wednesday—Jersey City at Elizabeth.

Thursday—Kingston at Jersey City, Paterson at Stamford.

Friday—Elizabeth at Kingston.

Saturday—Kingston at Paterson.

This week will find Kingston facing a hard schedule, as they have three games to play. Thursday night the Colonials go to Jersey City for a game, returning home to meet the Elizabeth team Friday night. Saturday the locals will go to Paterson to oppose Downey's quintet. With Vachter and his men playing the game they should. Kingston will probably come out on the large end in all three games.

Paterson Wins at Home.

Paterson defeated Brooklyn Saturday night by a score of 22 to 21. Brooklyn had Sedran, Schmeelk, Ruckert, Ripley and Friedman in the lineup. Sedran scored seven points for Brooklyn. Clinton being the chief point maker, scoring eight for Paterson.

New State League Organized.

The New York State Basketball League composed of teams in the cities of Troy, Schenectady, Utica, Gloversville, Mohawk and Hudson has been organized for the 1915-16 season. The opening game of the league will take place at Hudson on Thursday, November 18, when the Schenectady team will be the opponents of the Hudson five.

The St. Michael's players, who will represent Schenectady, are working out mightily and are showing fully as good form at last year when they played several of the strongest State League teams to a standstill, winning from some of them. It is expected by Schenectady fans that the St. Michael's will be in the running at all times.

"Chief" Muller, who is wanted by several managers in the Interstate League, has signed to play with Mohawk.

Pigs Is Pigs.
The prize Berkshire pig that sold for $2,600 bore the title of Duke of Sussex VI. But as the democratic poet sang: "The rank is but the guinea's stamp, as pigs is pigs without it."

Democratic Candidate
FOR CORONER
RICHARD H. MCCUTCHEON

4 CORONER (Vote for One)
★ Richard H. McCutcheon
Democratic

The only candidate from the city of Kingston running for the office of Coroner. His opponent is from the extreme end of Ulster county. Keep the office in Kingston, the center of industrial activities, where the services of the coroner are needed, and easily to command, and can reach any part of the county in the quickest possible time. The present coroner is from this city and his term of office expires after this year. Kingston should have a coroner for the next three years. Your only chance to continue this office in Kingston is to vote for Richard H. McCutcheon, the Democratic candidate, by making a cross (X) mark before his name.
